Overview
This conference was designed to provide the practitioner with evidence-based information leading to an increase in educational awareness of the clinical advancements of wound identification, assessment and treatment.

Objectives
Identify key aspects in the continuum of care (process) from admission to post discharge care settings for the adult wound care patient.

• Describe various wound types and identify treatment modality options to promote wound healing.
• Identify indicators to assess the nutritional status impacting wound healing.
• List three characteristics of pressure redistribution support surfaces.

Parking
Please note that parking for this event is FREE at the UPMC Luna Garage. All conference attendees are asked to park at the UPMC Luna Garage, located at 5111 Baum Boulevard, Pittsburgh, PA, 15232.

If parking anywhere else, please note that the parking rate for the day will be the attendee’s full responsibility. No discount rate will be provided. The Luna Garage is within walking distance of the meeting location. Those with special needs, please call in advance to arrange for parking.
